Minister,

In short the plan for this weekend is that they will monitor the situation closely and adjust posture as they get more intel, so it may shift as we get closer to the weekend. Below is an overview of what's being planned for the weekend. It's not to be shared or used in any public speaking events:

- POU OPS Section on the ground today, OPP Section maintenance day
- PLT monitoring outer sites and appears that trucks are being serviced or waiting for other truckers to get their rigs and head out
- Intel monitoring the sites noting that they are dwindling in size confirming PLT observations – no known new issues – monitoring some subjects on-line but not action based
- Traffic – 3 heavy and 3 light tows available for quick response
- POU resourcing for weekend will be based on Intel – OPP/OPS with RCMP National available
- OPS/OPP Sections activated for Thursday through weekend
- OPS Tactical setting up for regular posture and will be staffed for support of POU if required
- PLT linking in and coordinating with Algonquin Nation for private smudging cleanse of Wellington on Thursday 24 Feb 22
- Compressing secure zone further north to Queen for opening Thursday morning while keeping same number of QRT and ability to re-establish expanded zones if warranted
